natural latex rubber tubing, copper wire, wooden beads

“Natural latex rubber tubing, which is also known as ‘surgical tubing,’ has myriad applications in the healthcare field, such as drains, feeding tubes, irrigation, and surgical procedures. Surgical tubing comes in a variety of shapes and sizes with dozens of possible interconnections and fittings. It is flexible, resilient, adaptable, soft, forgiving, and incredibly strong—admirable qualities indeed!

The foundational structure of this piece is surgical tubing, and it has been curled and held into place using copper. Wooden beads add texture, dimension, and dynamism to this versatile, fun piece of jewelry!”
